

Nancy Hudgins Short Bio

Nancy Hudgins was born and raised in Virginia, graduated from Boston University and the University of Virginia School of Law, and then practiced law in California.

When she began thinking about writing children's books in earnest, Nancy attended multiple writing-for-children seminars through the Society of Children's Book Writers and Illustrators and Boyds Mill and participated in critique groups through Inked Voices. Now she focuses on writing biographies and nonfiction.

Nancy lives in Northern California, where she and her rescue dog, Buddy, founded a Little Free Library dedicated to children's books. When not researching, writing and revising new books, Nancy enjoys bocce, hiking, women's soccer (watching), and, like Ursula, jigsaw puzzles. She has been known to binge-watch a TV show or two (or more).

She is delighted to be represented by Rachel Orr at Prospect Agency: rko@prospectagency.com.
